

Pride is more than just rainbows and parades. It means so many things to so many people. Pride is celebration and joy. Pride is inclusion, community and individuality. Pride lifts up the struggles and progress from our past while striving for a new and more inclusive tomorrow. Pride is living authentically out in the open, embracing the fullness of God's love and letting our light shine bright before all people.

We invite and encourage you to share YOUR individual expressions and reflections on Pride with RLC - and the world! Below are some prompts to help stir-up creativity, but feel free to color outside the lines.

- As Resurrection people, what does Pride mean in your life?
- What has the Resurrection community meant to you during your journey?
- Then and now: how has the meaning of Pride evolved for you?
- What does inclusion look and feel like to you?
- How do you see "Respect, Love, Community" lived out at RLC?

Share your expressions on Facebook, Twitter or Instagram and tag with #RLCPride (can include artwork/drawings, poems, personal statements, stories, music, clothing, knit/crochet/embroidery, photos, etc). OR email us at digital@rlcindy.org. Multiple expressions welcome!

If you want to be sure we spot your creative expression, send us an email at digital@rlcindy.org.

Please note: we may choose to share/publish your content across our online spaces (e.g. website, Facebook, Twitter, Instagram etc).
